

From the Tour of Babel to Internet: Educate Humanity to Peace Restoring Communication

Daide Astori

University of Parma (Italy)

daide.astori@unipr.it

Abstract

The myth of the confusion of languages, and the parallel dream of the research/ricovero of a (holy, or perfect, or still universal) language, inherits the history of humanity, from the ancient to the contemporary times [7]. Aim of the contribute is to frame the question in its historical context [2]: also re-reading the words of the great pedagogist Comenius, on one side [8], and investigating, on the other one, the eloquent esperanto experiment [3], we will underline how the modern proposal of Internet not only is not against multilingualism and multiculturalism (differently from other aspects and problems of the present globalisation [4, 11]), but it contributes, by restoring and increasing communication [1, 5, 6], to the protection and promotion of a linguistic ecology (as thought from the pioneers [9] to the newest scholars [10]), educating humanity to peace and helping in developing his well-being. Through it, the fracture is recomposed and the ethical proposal of the “hospitalité langagière” [12] is concretely renewed and realized.

References

- [1] Astori, D. (2004). “Le chat-lines come supporto glottodidattico”. Rassegna Italiana di Linguistica Applicata [R.I.L.A.] 36/2-3 (2004), pp. 35-40.
- [2] Astori, D. (2010). “Saussure e il dibattito (inter)linguistico sulle lingue internazionali ausiliarie a cavallo fra XIX e XX secolo”. Atti del Sodalizio Glottologico Milanese 3 n.s. (2010 [2008]), pp. 102-120.
- [3] Astori, D. (2010). “Comunicazione internazionale e libero pensiero: Esperanto tra pianificazione linguistica e religiosa/Internacia komunikado kaj libera penso: Esperanto inter lingvistika kaj religia planado”. Inkoj 1/2 (2010), pp. 154-193.
- [4] Astori, D., ed. (2012). “Which Language for Europe?”. Inkoj 3/1 (2012), monographic.
- [5] Astori, D. (2013a). “E-learning and Minorities”. RILA 2013, forthcoming
- [6] Astori, D. (2013b). “Le lingue in internet fra identità e globalizzazione”, in: F. Pagnotta, ed., L’età di Internet. Umanità, cultura, educazione, forthcoming.
- [7] Eco, U. (1993). La ricerca della lingua perfetta nella cultura europea. Roma-Bari: Laterza.
- [8] Formizzi, G. (2006). Le radici culturali dell’Esperanto. La pedagogia di Giovanni Amos Comenio. S. Pietro in Cariano (VE): Gabrielli Editori.
- [9] Haugen, E. (1972). The Ecology of Language. Stanford: Stanford University Press.
- [10] Iannàccaro, G. (2010). “Ecologia linguistica: ha senso parlarne? ”, in: D. Astori, ed., I diritti linguistici, “Multilinguismo e Società” (2010), monographic. Pisa: Edistudio, pp. 23-38.
- [11] Phillipson, R. (2009). Linguistic imperialism continued. New York-Delhi: Routledge-Orient Blackswan.
- [12] Ricœur, P. (1990). Soi-même comme un autre. Paris: Seuil.