Ramadan Ahmed Shalbag is a lecturer at College of Education in Khoms ,Al- Mergeb University.

I graduated in ELT from Al- Mergeb University in2000. Then I pursued my study and graduated from the Academy of post Graduate Studies, Tripoli –Libya, and awarded MA degree in teaching English as a foreign language in 2004.

I attended an in- service course for teachers of English at University of Exeter 2003 UK. I also participated in planning a work shop on developing ELT in the secondary schools in Khoms 2009-2010. From2004-2010 I worked as a part-time teaching staff member at the Departments of English in Nasser University, Mosrata University, and Tripoli University.

I also planned and supervised many projects and activities of the department like using literature in teaching English, using Tv programs in ELT On Oct. 2011, I worked in a team in planning CPD program for preparatory teachers of English in Khoms.

I also Participated in a conference titled "Future of Education" which took place in Italy from 7-8 June 2012 in Florence.

Now I am working on PhD programme titled' Investigating the students' problems of academic writing at university level' at the Sudan University for science and technology.
