

Diane Boothe

Institution: Dean College of Education
at Boise State University

Diane Boothe is Dean of the College of Education at Boise State University. She holds a Doctor of Public Administration degree from the University of California, has served as a teacher and school principal and worked with English Language Learners at the university and public school levels.

Diane serves as President of the Idaho Association of Colleges for Teacher Education, and is past President of Georgia TESOL and former Chair of TESOL, Higher Education Interest Section.

She is a University of Georgia System Governor's Teacher Fellow and published a book titled: In the Eyes of the Beholder: Cultural and Disciplinary Perspectives on Giftedness.