Janene Sproul is currently completing her Master of Education (Research) degree while working as a Research Officer at Murdoch University, Western Australia.

After completing a Bachelor of Science degree (Zoology and Physiology) and Postgraduate Diploma of Education, Janene taught High School Science for ten years specialising in the Biological Sciences.

Janene took leave from teaching while raising her family, then returned as a classroom relief teacher and supervisor of trainee teachers. It was during these years that her research topic emerged.

Janene hopes that her research will continue the conversation between medical and educational researchers to provide the optimal learning environment for each young, developing mind.
