Christian Kubat is a part of the working group Didactics of Geography at the Martin-Luther-University in Halle Germany.

He is 28 years old and has a diploma in physical geography since 2012. His diploma thesis was about how to create a non-guided adventure-trip with GPS in a biosphere reserve in the middle of Germany.

Since 2013 he is the project manager of the COMENIUS project called SCICAMP which will be a network for science holiday camps in Europe. Also he is PhD student and makes research about possibilities of national parks within their environmental education and using of mobile technology.

His favorite interests and activities are: nature, wildlife, national parks, coasts, environmental education, team training, holiday and adventure camps
