

Juan Ramón Guijarro Ojeda

Institution: University of Granada

Address: Department of Language and Literature
Education, Faculty of Education, Campus Cartuja, s/n

Postal Code: 18071, Granada

Country: Spain

Tel: +34 958 24 13 25

Fax: +34 958 24 41 87

Email: jrgo@ugr.es

Web: <http://www.ugr.es>

Juan Ramón Guijarro-Ojeda holds a PhD in Applied Linguistics, an MA in English Philology, an MA in Social and Cultural Anthropology, and a BA in TEFL for Primary Education (University of Granada).

He was an exchange student at Birmingham University (UK) and a Spanish language and culture assistant at the University of Montreal (Canada). Since 2004 he has taught English language and literature and Applied Linguistics at the University of Granada. He has been a visiting researcher at Harvard University (2008) and at the University of California at Berkeley (2007).

His research interests lie in the fields of cultural and sexual identity issues in ELT, existential competence, ELT teacher training, and Spanish as a Foreign/Second Language. He has published in Hispania Journal, RLA, The Reading Matrix, Porta Linguarum, International Journal of Learning, MacMillan, Visor, etc.

He has been a full-time researcher in teacher training projects of the European Commission and the Spanish Ministry of Science and Innovation. He got his first period of research (2005-2010) positively evaluated by CNEAI (Ministry of Education, Culture and Sports).