Pamela Atzori is a European Sales administrator at Turnitin, the world leading expert in anti-plagiarism solutions.

She graduated in Lettere at the Università degli Studi di Cagliari in 2003 and completed a PhD in European Media from Aberystwyth University in 2011.

She has spoken at several conferences and has helped organizing events in the UK and abroad within the education, as well as the private, sectors.

She has worked in the education field as a tutor, trainer and researcher for many years and since 2011 has worked in the fields of European advertising and sales administration.

She is currently focusing her expertise within all aspects of the plagiarism phenomenon, including its prevention and eradication. She collaborates with universities and organizations across Europe to propose solutions, and encourage these institutions, to cooperate in the fight against plagiarism.
