

Melinda Dooly

Institution: Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona

Address: Facultat de Ciències de l'Educació
Edifici G5; despatx G5-107

Postal Code: 08193 Bellaterra (Barcelona)

Country: Spain

Tel: +34-93-581.32.52

Fax: +34-93-581.30.14

Email: melindaann.dooly@uab.cat

Web: <http://pagines.uab.cat/melindadooly/>

Melinda Dooly is a teacher trainer and researcher at the Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona. She has got a double major in English and Spanish Language and Literature from Wake Forest University (USA), an MA in Education from Open University (UK) and a Ph.D. in Educational Sciences from the Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona.

Melinda is a full-time lecturer at the Department of Language Teaching Methodology in the Faculty of Education of the Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona, where she tutors student-teachers and teaches Language Methodology courses. She is also a member of GREIP (Research Group on Plurilingual Interaction and Teaching) and is actively involved in various national and international research projects. Her research has culminated in several books and numerous journal articles.

She is the founding and current editor of Bellaterra Journal of Teaching and Learning Language and Literature, Reviews and Criticisms editor of the Language and Intercultural Communication Journal and founding and current co-editor of the book series entitled Telecollaboration in Education, published by Peter Lang.