

Sandra J. Hellyer-Riggs

Institution: Indiana University-Purdue
University-Indianapolis (IUPUI)
Address: 2911 East Village Park, North
Drive
Postal Code: Carmel, IN 46033
Country: USA
Tel: 317-372-9080
Email: sjhellyer@bsu.edu

Dr. Hellyer-Riggs is an Assistant Professor of Psychology at IUPUI in Indianapolis, IN, USA.

Dr. Hellyer-Riggs graduated from Indiana University with a Ph.D. in Higher Education and a cognate in Psychology. She has taught at IUPUI since 1988, as well as having held a position in Faculty Development.

Some of Dr. Hellyer-Riggs' current research interests have been in the area of Pedagogy with special emphasis on teaching students through active learning, creating classes that stimulate students' cognitive growth, and moving students beyond active learning to transformative learning.

Dr. Hellyer-Riggs has presented papers at numerous National and International Conferences about her research findings, as well as having her research published in National and International Journals.

Dr. Hellyer-Riggs currently teaches various Psychology and Educational Psychology classes. Her expertise is in the area of Human Growth and Development and Social Psychology. She also has extensive knowledge of teaching online classes using Blackboard, Oncourse, Skype, and Panopto.