Yi Wang has a PhD in applied linguistics based on an analysis of spoken English and Chinese, and on the application of DIT technologies to the acquisition of spoken English by mother-tongue speakers of Mandarin Chinese.

Her area of expertise is the analysis and evaluation of intonation patterns in both Mandarin Chinese and English and she has co-published 6 academic papers and made 14 presentations at prestigious conferences such as BAAL, EuroCALL, IATEFL, IVACS and MATSDA. She has participated in the EU Framework 6 project SALERO and the Enterprise Ireland funded CHIPS project and is currently the main linguist on the EU-funded ChAT project.
