Dr Mario Pace is a Resident Senior Lecturer of Italian at the Department of Arts and Languages in Education within the Faculty of Education of the University of Malta.

He is responsible for the training and formation of teachers of Italian as a foreign language as well as for the organization of tutorials for students to advise in the compilation of the Professional Development Portfolio (PDP). He is also chairperson of the PDP committee within the Faculty of Education and coordinator of the teaching practice sessions of student teachers of Italian within the same Faculty.

He has participated in conferences both in Europe and the USA and has published various academic papers, with topics varying from Italian literature in Malta to the teaching of Italian as a foreign language.

Dr Pace is Director of Courses of the Società Dante Alighieri (Valletta, Malta) and he is the official examiner in Malta for the PLIDA (Progetto lingua italiana Dante Alighieri) examinations as well as Chairman of the General Certificate of Education Examinations of Italian in Malta. He is responsible for the development, management and delivery of a number of in-house training courses of 'Italian for Commercial Purposes' and "Italian for Call Centres" for various private and public companies across the Maltese Islands.
