Ms. Heli Brander works as an Education Coordinator at the University of Turku, Brahea Centre for Training and Development 1997-present.

Her main fields of expertise are:

- Teacher training
- Education technology and ICT in learning
- Design and development of learning environments

Ms. Brander has a long history of organizing both national and international training and developing projects for adult learners, especially for teachers in all levels. Carrying out the projects is based on the tools and methods offered by blended learning solutions and ICT. At Brahea Ms. Brander has worked several years (1997-2005) at Open University's developing unit of eLearning, being involved with the projects aiming to develop and improve methods and materials as well as pedagogical and didactic models for e-learning, open and flexible learning environments and ICT use in schools.

Since 2006-present Ms. Brander has worked at Brahea's Unit of Expert Services within the similar field. Recently she coordinates wide national teacher training and developing projects aiming to improve teaching, learning and "the school of the future" by developing the modern learning environments and the use of the newest ICT (such as the use of tablets) in schools.
