Olga Medvedeva is the International Project Co-ordinator at the Public Service Language Centre (Lithuania), a public institution that specializes in language courses for adults and has extensive experience in teacher training and material development, including ICT based learning programmes, textbooks for schools and language courses for specific purposes.

Olga Medvedeva studied philology and foreign languages at Moscow State University of Linguistics, where she obtained a PhD in linguistics. She has worked in adult, vocational and tertiary education (Vilnius University, Lithuanian University of Educational Sciences). Olga Medvedeva has been involved in designing teaching materials and tests (co-author of several textbooks and distance learning programmes); she is an experienced teacher trainer: in 2011 she received the qualification of the EUROLTA Master trainer. Since 2001 Olga Medvedeva has worked as a researcher and manager in numerous European projects aimed at promoting linguistic and cultural diversity in Europe and introducing innovative teaching methods.

Her present interests include applied linguistics, semantics, intercultural communication and didactics.
