LLWINGS Assumptions: how to make School “fit for the future”

- School as an effective learning environment, but also as the gate to citizenship and social inclusion
- Autonomy and ownership of Learning experience
- Motivation, pleasure, sense making fostering engagement in Lifelong Learning processes
- The pleasure to learn for students and teachers are “mirror” processes

Key “Learning to Learn” Issues (1/2)

- Discrepancies between the field and the system
- Innovative learning practices evidence value of
  - “alternative” learning paths
  - discovery, inquiry, discussion in autonomous situated activities (learn as researchers do)
  - individual and collective (role of peers and right to privacy)
  - learning made explicit (reflect, appropriate, capitalise)
  - formative and appreciative evaluation (e.g. step out of “right-wrong” duality)
  - richness of diversity
  - etc.

Key “Learning to Learn” Issues (2/2)

- Innovative teaching practices evidence value of
  - favouring systemic approaches
  - addressing learning styles issues
  - taking into account transversal and socio-behavioural competences
  - embedding school into life, taking roots in reality ...but not only
  - working with a larger learning community
  - taking time to share practices (including use of transnational mobility)
  - etc.

LLwings Competence Framework

Articulate
Various
Learning
Strategies

Recognise
Learning
Profiles
and rely on them

Articulate
Various
Assessment
Strategies

Bridge
Gaps
Between In and Out

Recognize Learning Profiles and Rely on them

- Understand the diversity of learning and cognitive styles
- Have students aware of their own learning and cognitive style
- Manage style diversity among students

Florence, June 7-8 2012

Liliane Esnault

Articulate various learning strategies

- Design and organise various learning activities
- Build on various learning experiences
- Foster explicitly enjoyable learning to learn experiences

Florence, June 7-8, 2012

Liliane Esnault

Articulate various assessment strategies

- Design and organise various assessment strategies (including peer and self assessment, formative and appreciative evaluation)
- Have students reflect fruitfully on their learning experience
- Imply students in creating valuable meaningful improvements of learning activities

Florence, June 7-8 2012

Liliane Esnault

Bridge the Gap between and out

- Understand the learning continuum – formal/non-formal/informal
- Design and implement learning activities that bring life into school and bring school out into life
- Work with an enlarged learning community

LLWINGS: Addressing Key Challenges

- So we hope to address at least some of the challenges listed by our keynote speaker from EACEA:
  - Reduce early school leavers
  - Increase participation in compulsory education
  - Increase quality and efficiency of Education
  - Make larger room for creativity and innovation
  - Promote equity, social cohesion and active citizenship
  - Make Education and Training a more attractive place to work
  - Make LifeLong Learning a reality
