

Dorota Żelechowska

Institution: Jagiellonian University
Address: Gołębia 24
Postal Code: 31-007 Cracow
Country: Poland
Tel: 12 422 10 33
Fax: 12 422 32 29
Email: dorota.zelechowska@uj.edu.pl
Web: www.uj.edu.pl

Dorota Żelechowska is a PhD student at the Institute of Psychology at the Jagiellonian University in Cracow, Poland. Currently, she is taking part in an exchange at the Radboud University Nijmegen in the Netherlands.

She earned her M.A. in Psychology from the Jagiellonian University in 2008. She also earned her B.A. in Philosophy from the same University in 2010. Dorota Żelechowska is a PhD student since 2008. Her PhD project is entitled "Working memory training in children: near-transfer and far-transfer effects". It is conducted under the supervision of and in co-operation with prof. dr hab. Edward Nęcka.

So far, Dorota Żelechowska has been involved in research projects focusing on working memory, executive functions, attention and creativity. She also has teaching experience in psychology as she has lectured at the Institute of Psychology and at the Institute of Philosophy of the Jagiellonian University.

Apart from her academic interests, Dorota Żelechowska has experience in working with children. Recently, she has specialized in life coaching.