

Tamara Kelley

Institution: Columbia University, New York

Country: United States

Email: tlk2122@tc.columbia.edu

Tamara Kelley is currently a certified doctoral candidate in the Adult Learning and Organizational Leadership Program at Teacher's College, Columbia University in New York. She has held numerous administrative positions in educational organizations in which she has collaborated with educators to improve the leadership capacity of personnel. She has over twenty years of experience in designing professional development programs for organizations. She is an experienced coach and mentor as well as a certified training consultant. She has a Master of Science Degree from the University of Dayton in Ohio as well as a Training Consultant Certificate from New York University in New York.