Ms Jolanta Galecka is the Education Expert in Young Digital Planet, an educational e-content publisher and e-learning technology provider with a strong global presence.

She is responsible for the expertise in education, for the Company's presence at the trade shows and fairs, Social Media representation, writing articles, copywriting, scenarios for webinars, Company videos, WebEx presentations, live presentations and public speeches. I am passionate about education, child development, human psychological development, brain development and its functioning.

She studied psychology and sociology, graduated from law (Masters in Law) and then passed the bar exam and became an attorney-at-law, drafting contracts, defending clients in front of the multiple courts of Poland (including Supreme Court) and dealing with commercial, financial, construction and copyright law among many others.

She lived in United States for several years where she volunteered at different schools, started teaching in a Montessori School and a Spanish Immersion Academy. She became involved in Waldorf education, Berlitz method and state-of-the-art educational materials and then she combined it all with technology, working at Microsoft in Redmond, WA as an Software Design Engineer in Test.

She was also a speaker and panelist at Media & Learning Conference in Brussels, at Online Educa Berlin and Learntec.
