

Maura Sellars

Institution: University of Newcastle

Address: University Drive, Callaghan

Postal Code: NSW 2308

Country: Australia

Tel: +61 02 4921 7919

Fax:

Email: Maura.Sellars@newcastle.edu.au

Web:

http://www.newcastle.edu.au/staff/research-profile/Maura\_Sellars/

Maura Sellars is a lecturer in the School of Education. Her areas of research interest are:

- Differentiation K-6
- executive function
- intrapersonal intelligence
- teacher education and professional development
- mathematics and the development of numeracy

Maura Sellars trained initially at the Froebel Institute in London before completing B. Ed (Hons) at the London Institute of Education. She has worked in primary schools in the UK and Australia for 28 years, teaching all the primary grades. She was awarded a Dip.Ed. in Religious Education from ACU's Queensland campus before graduating from ACU (Strathfield) with M.Ed. (Research). She had completed a PhD thesis exploring executive function. She has been employed as a lecturer in education for almost ten years and is involved in various research projects including one that focuses on teachers' perspectives of themselves as teachers of numeracy

She is currently writing a book on reflective practice for teachers to be published by Sage Publishing (London) and editing and contributing to another on best teacher practice with colleagues from the School of Education, University of Newcastle, Australia